CIRCUS ARRIVES; KIDS ALL HAPPY

Latter, Includes All Children from Six to Sixty.

GREAT CROWDS AT GROUNDS

Watch Tents Spring Up and Gape at Performers—Ringling Bros. Show Has Unusually Good Programme. Parade Starts at 9 o'clock This Morning—Four Shows Scheduled.

Why he had worrying over the District government when Ringling's Circus is in town?

The crowds that gathered in the grounds of Fourteenth and H streets northeast all day yesterday, proved without a doubt that Isaac Walton never bred a yearling in the breasts of nature-lovers to match the desire of children from six to sixty years old to get past the undulating canvas of a 500-foot circus tent. From the break of day until long after dark the grounds were inspected by no less than 10,000 persons. The rapidly-growing community of tents was one of the Sunday features of the city, and the cars running out into the northeast were crowded with sightseers.

In five sections, making all told a train more than a mile long, Ringling's Circus, with its 1,200 employees, and its hundreds of animals, pulled into the yards at South Capitol and G streets southeast early yesterday morning.

Boys Out Before Daylight.

The first section came in before daybreak, but not too early to find a crowd of small boys waiting for it. It was 6 o'clock when the first wagon arrived at the circus grounds. Two hours later tents had sprung up out of the earth, covering acres of space, ready for the rest of the show as fast as it arrived. By 6 o'clock last night everything the erection of which was not purposely put off until this morning was standing. The cooks in the commissary tent were serving an eight-course meal to 1,200 men and women as easily as if they had all the comforts of home at their disposal. The horses were munching, the performers were shaving or writing letters, the women of the circus were out in the city in "Seeing Washington" automobiles, and the entire army was enjoying itself in an air of permanency in its three-day home.

The whole thing caused less commotion than a meeting of a mothers' club.

Parade at 9 o'clock This Morning.

This morning the gilded wagons, the two wheeled chariots, the glittering ladies of the up-in-the-air profession, the lions, the zebras, the elephants, and all the rest of them, will parade through the principal streets of the city. The route is as follows: Leave the show grounds, at Fourteenth and H streets, at 9 o'clock, thence along Maryland avenue to First street northeast, to B street, to New Jersey avenue, to Massachusetts avenue, to Seventh street northwest, to north side of K street, to Twenty-second street northwest, to Pennsylvania avenue, to Fifteenth street northwest, to Pennsylvania avenue, to First street northwest, to B street, to Maryland avenue, and back to the grounds.

Four performances will be given, two to-day and two to-morrow, in the afternoon and evening. The afternoon performances will begin at 2 o'clock and the evening shows at 8 o'clock. The doors will be open an hour before the performance begins, to allow an inspection of the menagerie.

Yesterday was a day of rest for many of the performers of the show, although the "rough-necks," as the laborers are called, put in a hard twelve hours. The commissary department, too, had nothing coming in the way of spare moments. This branch of the administration of the big circus, under the direction of A. L. Webb, prepared an eight-course dinner, at which 4,000 biscuits alone were eaten. The cooks who were cutting out the circles of dough made a noise like a buck-and-wing dance at a vaudeville show. At dinner 150 gallons of drip coffee were consumed, and 80 pounds of chicken went into the chicken stew. At yesterday's breakfast 4,200 eggs lost all chance of getting into the 800 pounds of chicken class. Mr. Webb has 100 men under him. He keeps two butchers busy all day cutting up, on a daily average, 5,000 pounds of meat.

How Performers Spent the Day.

But the performers, or "Kinkers," the men and women who get the cheers from the spectators, did pretty much as they wished. "Reddy, the clown," got some white paint and renewed the nails on the big feet he will wear this afternoon. The girl who stands on the shoulders of the man who stands on the back of the horse that gallops around the ring at a 2-4 clip, was trying a new plume on her hat. The strong man was sewing on a button and shaving at the same time.

Dustin, the grand old man of the chimpanzees, was rummaging in solitary dignity in a cage all by himself. The monkeys were stopping at the "Hotels de Monk." Here one of them was seen on the roof, with his younger brother, trying to get his stomach on a chimney, with a bored expression on his face. The clown of the two was bending over him with the attitude of a scientist looking for a new bacillus, digging around in the hair with skilled fingers. An attendant said he was teaching a troupe of acrobats of the genius Pulex imitans to come out and be swallowed.

Faith in Her Horseshoes.

Mile. La Belle Roche, who does the double somersault in an automobile, is a quiet maiden from France, who has a barrel of nerve, but very little to say about herself. It is enough for her to know that the apparatus down which she makes her perilous descent is carefully constructed, and tested with the automobile carrying a sack of sand weighing exactly what she does. Beyond that, she has no fear, for hasn't she sailed two horse-shoes to the end of the gap?

circus. Arthur Saxon breaks four world's records at each performance. One of the little things he does is to lie on the air, supporting a plank carrying thirteen men, weighing 2,500 pounds. It is claimed for him that when he lifts 374 pounds above his head with one hand, he is breaking the previous world's record by 102 pounds.

One of the clowns who will disport themselves this afternoon is a man seventy-two years old, who was in the business before most of the present generation saw the light. His name is Al Mico. He was one of the original Humpty Dumpty "joys," and owns property in New York.

One of the Famous Jordans.

Neille Jordan, an aerialist, has traveled in every country of the world, although she had her twenty-first birthday only last week. She was practically born in a circus, and is a member of the famous Jordan family of aerialists.

Among other prominent features of the circus are the Schuman performing horses from the Circus Schuman, at Berlin; the telephoning elephants; Alexander Patty, who walks on his head; a Mexican wire dancer; the Lerch family of acrobats, at fifty feet down in the world. Ringling's is out for a record this year. Those in charge of the receipts say the business done last week in Philadelphia was the biggest ever done by a circus anywhere. There were nine "turn-aways" in two performances.

TWO BI-HYBRIDS BORN.

Will Be Put on Exhibition at Eagles' Show This Week.

Two baby bi-hybrids were added to Col. Ferrari's trained animal show at the Eagles' carnival Saturday night. The mother, Maxine, is one of the largest, if not quite the largest, bi-hybrid in existence. She is only partly trained, and is such a vicious animal that it is not likely she will ever be entirely trained to do the work now being done by her brother bi-hybrid.

These peculiar animals are a cross-bred, being half lion, one quarter leopard, and one quarter jaguar. Unlike any other animal, wild or otherwise, they eat their young, so that it was necessary to remove the babies as soon as they were born. The mother made such an outcry for them and behaved so wildly that she caused all the other animals to become exceedingly excited, and they roared and plunged about for hours before peace finally settled down over the menagerie.

The little arrivals are not at all pretty, but they are interesting in their being such a novelty. They greatly resemble new-born kittens, except that they are much larger.

Col. Ferrari intends to put them on exhibition this week, and it will likely be the only time Washingtonians will have the opportunity to see these animals in their infancy.

ALUMNAE TO HOLD REUNION.

Invitation for Event to Be Held on June 8.

Invitations have been issued to the fifteenth annual reunion of the alumnae association of the Academy of the Visitation at the convent in Georgetown on the morning of June 8 at 10 o'clock. There will be an election of officers to succeed the present board, which consists of the honorary president, Mrs. Beatrice Perry, Kemont; president, Mrs. Mary Maguire Carr; vice presidents, Miss Edith Dempsey, Mrs. Nellie Taylor Tatt, Mrs. Isabella Seyfert Elocok, Mrs. Helen Abel Baughman, Mrs. Isabel O'Neill O'Connor, Mrs. Mary Joy Kittredge, Miss Julia Ash, Mrs. Emma Eldridge Moran, Mrs. Josephine Dixon Walsh, Mrs. Bernadette Kelly Plant, Mrs. Aggie Welder Fleming, Mrs. Mattie Thompson Davis, Mrs. Ella Clark Richards, Mrs. Elizabeth Godley Kohl, and Mrs. Maria Towanda Padro; corresponding secretary, Miss Agatha O'Neill; recording secretary, Miss Mary R. Wilcox; treasurer, Miss Rosa Macias White; executive committee, Miss Jane Turnbull, Miss May Conrad, Mrs. Grace Chasest, Hill, Mrs. Mary Stedman May, and Miss Corinne Bevans. Mrs. Kennon, as the oldest living alumna, is honorary president for life. Following the meeting the association will be entertained by the sisters at a luncheon at 2 o'clock.

WOULD DIGNIFY DRUGGERY.

Rev. Dr. Woodrow Gives Lesson in Practical Sermon.

Preaching on "How to dignify drugery," Rev. Samuel H. Woodrow, pastor of the First Congregational Church, said yesterday morning:

"We dignify our daily tasks by doing them 'unto the Lord.' The humblest task may glow with a heavenly light when well performed with a divine motive. One's daily task if performed in a Christian spirit is truly religious. There is a large amount of drugery in every trade or profession. The lowly task that requires effort, the wearisome routine of life makes drugery of us all.

"No one is exempt. The farmer, the miner, the mechanic are no more the drugers than the merchant, the doctor, or the preacher. Each finds some disagreeable or inconsequential task or some wearisome routine. How shall we dignify our drugery? By thinking of the good it accomplishes. Cooking food and washing clothes are drugery, but the health and happiness of the community, to say nothing of the morals and religion of the community, are dependent upon these tasks."

Sings First Church Solo.

At the solemn high mass at St. Patrick's Church yesterday the offertory number was an "Ave Maria" by Faure, for solo and chorus, sung by Joseph Merritt, boy soprano, and the members of the sanctuary choir. It was the first effort of the young singer as a church soloist. He has a voice of good range and quality, and made a favorable impression. The mass was sung by Rev. William J. Carroll, with students from Holy Cross College as deacon and sub-deacon. The sermon was preached by Rev. James Smyth.

Celebration at Brookland.

Forty hours' devotion was celebrated at St. Anthony's Church, Brookland, yesterday. A splendid showing was made by the Holy Name Society. Practically every man and boy in the parish, carrying lighted tapers, took part in the procession of the blessed sacrament, which followed the high mass. Father Southgate, pastor, was celebrant of the mass, and preached a brief sermon.
